Sunbeam is Now Enrolling 100 Infants and Toddlers in Free Child Care
Sunbeam's Early Education Centers are Open to Families Who Qualify in OKC

(OKLAHOMA CITY) – Sunbeam Family Services is enrolling 100 infants and toddlers in their early education centers across Oklahoma City. Children from birth to three, including young children with disabilities. Pregnant women who live in the greater Oklahoma City metro area, are eligible for our free program Home Base option. These programs are like daycare, but offer more benefits to children and their families.

Commented [BW1]: Pregnant women are eligible for enrollment in our Home Base option.

"Your children deserve the best," said Paula Gates, chief program officer, early childhood services at Sunbeam. "Sunbeam is a leader in early childhood education. As the Early Head Start provider for central Oklahoma, we offer a low teacher-child ratio where children are able to receive more personalized attention from highly-educated staff. Our centers are open and are here to serve your family."

Sunbeam is committed to helping children develop strong social skills, including self-confidence, and emerge better prepared for kindergarten. In addition to high-quality early education services, children enjoy free, healthy and tasty snacks and meals. Children also receive free physical and dental examinations, immunizations, health screenings and any necessary follow-up services.

The nonprofit's early education centers provide full-day, full-year services at more than 20 early education centers, including Educare Oklahoma City, Pierce Early Education Center and Millwood Early Education Center. This free program is open to children who children who qualify for DHS subsidy; children from families who receive public assistance, such as TANF or SSI; children with disabilities children in foster care, regardless of income; children from families with incomes below the poverty guidelines; children being raised by their grandparents; children from families experiencing homelessness and pregnant women.

To enroll you infant or toddler in this free program apply online at sunbeamfamilyservices.org/enroll. For more information email enroll@sunbeamfamilyservices.org or call (405) 609-3308.
