

🟠 Scrubbing Into Health and Safety! 🟠

In February, one of our Early Head Start classroom focused on health and safety, diving deep into essential practices that help keep us safe and well. Children learned about good hygiene, explored different parts of the body, and talked about the important roles of healthcare professionals who care for our communities.

Through imaginative play with medical tools, they became doctors for the day—performing health checks, caring for "patients," and even stitching up a few pretend boo-boos. This hands-on experience supported our goal of building early interest in STEAM while helping children feel confident, curious, and empowered around their own health.

🟠 The State of Mental Health in Oklahoma 🟠

Sunbeam CEO Sarah Rahhal, LCSW, joined the Oklahoma City Community Foundation's panel discussion surrounding the state of mental health in Oklahoma. The discussion ranged from acknowledging gaps in mental health care, the collaborative efforts throughout the state, and the role philanthropy plays in supporting this work.
